someone will have decided whether or not they will return to your church based on their first impressions.

First Impressions Matter

People don't usually go where they aren't welcome. That's just the way they're wired. Every Sabbath, our churches should have their welcome mats out with their doors open wide to all who want to come.

In the business world, hospitality is not left to chance. Most managers understand that providing quality customer care is directly related to their ability to stay in business.

Churches have a greater mission than any other business or organisation — to share Christ and His message of love and acceptance with the people in their communities. Hospitality Ministries can have a significant part in making this happen.
